

What I learned today about ww1 (World War 1)

I learned today that one of the reasons that WW1 started was because of the death of Franz Ferdinand. Franz Ferdinand was the archduke of Austria and the Royal Prince of Hungary. In 1914 he was assassinated in Sarajevo and because of his death it triggered a reaction that was quickly blown out of proportion. Rumours were going around that a Serbian called Gavrilo Phillips shot Franz dead. This rumor got to the government of Austria so they then decided to declare war on Serbia.

This shocked the world because everyone knew that this would have terrible and horrific consequences, this would be the start of the worst to come.

Archduke Franz Ferdinand

Gavrilo Phillips

By Jack